.935 STERLING SILVER CHAINS

We are very happy to be the exclusive Australian suppliers of .935 Sterling Silver Chains.

Our Chains are manufactured in Germany with a World Patent for a Tarnish Retardant treatment called 'Pronice'. Nano technology is used to apply this highly guarded treatment which interacts with the Silver on a molecular level. For the treatment to take effect additional silver is used.

Our Chains are .935 Silver which means they have a minimum of 93.5% silver and the only alloy which is added is pure jewellery grade copper for strength. You can actually feel the difference – silky smooth to touch.

What this all means for you and your customers is that our chains will never go black! You will find over time that they may go a dullish white, but a simple quick wipe with a silver cloth and they will be restored to their original gleaming beauty.... Your customers will love them!

We are sure you and your customer will be delighted with your choice of chain and we are confident our .935 Sterling Silver Chain Collection will leave you without any gaps in your range.
